Underground Telephone Wires.

S. M. Bryan has written a letter to the commissioners stating that the agreement between the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company in regard to laying underground wires has been fulfilled, and asks the return of the certified check deposited with the commissioners. Mr. Bryan says in his letter that the company has laid underground, from their central office across New York avenue to Fifteenth street, thence along Fifteenth street to Vermont avenue, to and into an alley in square 214, 450 wires in cables and fifty-four single wires. The whole number of wires are not carried to the termis named above, as it was found necessary to end some of the cables in alleys between the office and the alley in square 214. "We find," the letter says, "that the single wires are sufficient for the purpose of telephonic communication, while those in the cables will work very well, equal, I think, to those in the Waring cables. We must, nevertheless, for the present, at least look upon all underground work of this kind as wholly experimental, because of the lack of any data upon which to base a calculation as to its permanence and its adaptability to the requirements of a general telephone system."

A New Nationality.

The Evening News, Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, says editorially: "It is a singular doctrine, delighted sufficient, and dispelled the doubts of the most incredulous. Its virtues are praised by thousands who have been rescued from years of torture and misery. St. Jacobs Oil has come to be justly and universally recognized as the National Remedy."
